

CV –Jørgen Nørrevang Jensen

International Council for the Exploration of the Sea Conseil International pour l'Exploration de la Mer

ICESCIEM

Qualifications

Cand. Scient (M.Sc.) in Marine Ecology (1984), University of Aarhus, Denmark

Exam in practical pedagogy (1986), Kolding Gymnasium, Denmark

Ph.D. in Marine Ecology (Effects of eutrophication on soft-bottom macrofauna), (1995) University of Aarhus.

Professional activities

Long experience in monitoring of soft-bottom macrofauna. In the period 1989-1998 responsible for the Danish National monitoring of macrozoobenthos.

Experience in the use of statistics, especially multivariate statistics on biological community data

Scientific experience within the field of benthic marine ecology, especially the effects of eutrophication on macrozoobenthos

Experience in planning and implementation of national and international aquatic monitoring programmes

Experience in the database design and structure concerning biological community data.

Since January 2004 part of the ICES Advisory Programme

Work experience

1998-	Data Scientist at the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea (ICES)
1988-1998	Scientist at the National Environmental Research Institute (NERI), Dept. of Marine Ecology and Microbiology
1986-1988	Scientist at the University of Aarhus, Dept. of Ecology and Genetics Teacher at Kolding Gymnasium (High School)